At the National Conference on Ideological and Political Work in Colleges and Universities, General Secretary Xi Jinping clearly pointed out the importance and necessity of ideological and political education in higher education. It also focuses on the positive role of campus culture in teaching and educating people. Dormitory is an important infrastructure for colleges and universities. In the construction of campus culture, dormitory culture takes the dormitory as a carrier, reflecting its unique material and spiritual cultural world, and has far-reaching educational tasks for college students in the new era. influences. Therefore, in the new era, it is of great significance to strengthen the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities, and to explore new ways of educating people in dormitory culture[1].

1. The current situation of dormitory culture construction in colleges and universities

1.1 The cultural connotation of college dormitory

In full-time regular colleges and universities, a semi-closed teaching management form is adopted, and the dormitory is an important place for student life activities and part of learning activities. With the dissemination and development of information technology and multicultural value systems, college students in the new era are facing more and more temptations, and their personality development and hobbies also show diversified development characteristics. In this context, the problem of school dormitory contradictions is becoming more and more acute, and the serious ones will also affect the order of education and teaching in colleges and universities. The establishment of a school dormitory culture can arm students with a positive and healthy ideological system, so that students can learn and live better in the dormitory. For example, colleges and universities can create a "united and friendly" dormitory's interpersonal relationship and a healthy moral atmosphere. Even when college students face interpersonal conflicts, they can use this cultural atmosphere to optimize the contradiction and promote the comprehensiveness of students. sustainable development. Therefore, the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities is a kind of cultural atmosphere, more a kind of soft cultural foundation environment, and an effective education management system.

1.2 The current situation of dormitory culture construction in colleges and universities

As mentioned above, the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities involves the establishment of systems, the construction of software and hardware infrastructure, and the shaping of cultural atmosphere. But in fact, the current dormitory cultural construction of colleges and universities does not start like this. Affected by various subjective and objective factors, the current college dormitory culture construction has the following shortcomings[2]:

First, the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities pays attention to the hardware environment and despise the construction of cultural environment. The cultural environment is mainly able to form a harmonious and democratic environment that matches the socialist core value system in the shaping and construction. However, current colleges and universities pay too much attention to the optimization and upgrading of the dormitory hardware infrastructure. For example, complete the renovation of the dormitory and provide students with a safe dormitory living environment. However, there are obvious shortcomings in the construction of cultural life in the dormitory. Students still play electronic equipment and games in the comfortable dormitory.

Second, the construction of dormitory culture is biased towards commonality and ignores individualization. In the new era, with the rapid advancement of information technology, students' personality performance has been improved to a greater level, which is also one of the important factors leading to sharp contradictions in school dormitory life. But in fact, in the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities, it only pays attention to the institutionalized management of dormitories, so that all dormitory life can be based on evidence, while ignoring the educational management of every student. This makes it impossible for the construction of dormitory culture to achieve long-term development[3].

2. The educational function of the dormitory culture of colleges and universities

It can be seen from the above that the construction of dormitory culture in colleges and universities is not optimistic, which directly leads to the inability of the current dormitory culture to fully exert its educational function. Through the management concept of education and teaching, it can be seen that school dormitory culture has rich educational functions. The mechanism of educating people is as follows:

2.1 Dormitory culture can subtly affect students' ideology and morality

Dormitory culture is an important part of campus culture. In the construction of dormitory culture and cultural management, there are many subjects such as students, counselors, and logistics. These subjects play an important role in the ideological and moral education activities of colleges and universities. At present, with the help of the process of dormitory cultural construction, the active role of these subjects can be better brought into play, so as to better develop the students' ideological and moral construction. For example, the construction of dormitory culture is centered on student autonomy. Students can participate in the construction of dormitory culture and dormitory education management as masters, and form role models during this period, subtly promoting college students to form good behavior habits and establish correctness.

2.2 The dormitory culture can gradually cultivate the emotional hearts of students

With the continuous improvement of information technology, "home culture" came into being. Students spend more and more time in the dormitory, and the negative impact of unscreened network culture on students has become more and more obvious. At present, by building a dormitory cultural system, it can help students get out of the complex network culture and form some positive and healthy cultural forms. At the same time, in dormitory cultural activities, students can gradually form a positive network cultural pursuit. This step by step helps college students form positive and healthy emotions.

3. The realization path of the education function of the dormitory culture of colleges and universities

3.1 Pay attention to the connotation of dormitory culture construction and form a joint force of education and management

First, pay attention to the importance of dormitory cultural construction, and ensure that the cultural environment, material civilization and spiritual civilization of colleges and universities can be constructed and managed simultaneously. Colleges and universities should be able to attach importance to the construction of dormitory culture from top to bottom, and master the education function of dormitory culture so as to realize the coordination and cooperation between the various departments of the school, and jointly invest in the construction of the dormitory culture. For example, the school can provide necessary financial support for the construction of dormitory culture, and carry out cultural construction activities with heritage. The logistics management department can also play its own macro role to meet the needs of the school's student dormitory construction and develop the corresponding dormitory education system.

Second, it is required to be able to create a good internal and external cultural atmosphere. The current situation is aimed at the high level of cultural construction at the hardware level of the dormitory, while ignoring the cultural construction at the spiritual level. In this regard, it is necessary to be able to exert efforts in both ideological education and practical education. For example, a series of dormitory spiritual and cultural construction work will be organized and carried out on a regular basis. Through the selection of civilized dormitory activities, the spirit of unity and cooperation among dormitory members will be improved. The personalized development of each dormitory forms a unique cultural atmosphere for each dormitory, allowing each student to participate in the construction of a rich and versatile dormitory culture.

3.2 Give full play to the role of example in dormitory cultural construction and play the role of students' self-education

In the educational work of Lide Shuren in colleges and universities, the role of model role played a silent persuasive role. For this, in the realization of the cultural education function of college dormitory, it is more necessary to be able to play the role of role model in the dormitory.

First, it is required to be able to use new media technology to allow students to create and promote the dormitory's cultural education function. With the rapid development of self-media technology, colleges and universities are required to make full use of the WeChat official account platform in the construction of dormitory culture, and promote some outstanding dormitory practices and dormitory cultural activities on the platform. Under this incentive, students have Larger motivation participates in cultural creation and publicity to achieve self-education.

Second, give full play to the school's educational and guiding role and cultivate typical leaders. In the process of building a dormitory cultural atmosphere, counselors, apartment management departments, and logistics departments must be able to play their leading role in guiding students, consciously cultivate student role models, and drive students to self-service and self-manage through high-standard services, thereby leading more Students are invested in the construction of dormitory culture and self-education management.

4. Conclusion

To sum up, as a group-constructed culture, the construction of dormitory culture must be realized from the spiritual level and the hardware environment, and then use these dormitory activities and hardware environment design optimization activities to achieve the education function. However, in the new era, the cultural construction of higher education institutions has certain shortcomings. For example, the management of dormitory cultural construction is more important than education, and material and spiritual construction are separated from each other. Based on this requirement, we can take students as the main body, give better play to the self-education function of students, and simultaneously carry out the construction of dormitory software and hardware culture to create a good cultural atmosphere. It is also required to be able to play the role of a typical example and better promote the cultural and educational function of the entire college student dormitory.
