1. Introduction

The construction of harmonious campus is not only the harmony of students' learning atmosphere, but also the harmony of spirit and culture. As an important part of the construction of a harmonious campus, the integration of the two can not only implement the student management work, correct students' learning behavior, and enable students to develop and improve in an all-round way, but also contribute to the construction of a good campus culture system.

2. Problems in the construction of harmonious campus based on the management of college students

In the process of building a harmonious society in colleges and universities, there are many influencing factors, which can be roughly divided into two aspects: first, the school. For example, professional courses teaching, counselors, management leaders, logistics service personnel and so on; second, students. For example, students' own behavior, family factors and so on. After investigation, the following problems are found out:

2.1 Self cognition is vague of student

There are many college students who are not sure of their own positioning and think that they can do what they want to do after entering the university, and the teachers do not care about it. Students will become more indulgent without the correct goal guidance. In addition, some students' self-control ability is not very strong with low self-protection awareness, and they are easy to be cheated, such as the good example of campus loans. It not only affects students themselves, but also hinders the construction of harmonious campus<sup>[1]</sup>. At the same time, under the background the network information age of the society, the virtual network environment is full of all kinds of information, and some of it is relatively vulgar, which has an impact on the formation of students' correct values. In addition, some illegal personnel use the network to do some illegal things, attract the attention of students through various means, and even encourage students to participate in it. When college students lack cognitive ability and self-control ability, they will fall into the mire, further increasing the difficulty of management and bringing adverse impact on the construction of harmonious campus<sup>[2]</sup>.

2.2 Contradictions among students

From the actual situation of colleges and universities, the contradictions between students are generally reflected in the individuals, individual and group, groups, such as the differences in individual personality and lifestyle. Because college students are from different regions, each region's lifestyle and habits are different, it is easy to produce contradictions. This kind of conflict is more common in college students' dormitory life. At the same time, there are also problems of interests among groups. For example, their learning achievements are plagiarized by others, or the interests of the class are damaged. If these problems are not dealt with in time, they will become more and more serious, and finally rise to violence<sup>[3]</sup>.

2.3 Conflict between students and logistics support

In order to improve the quality and efficiency of running a school, colleges and universities have expanded the scale of running schools and recruited more students. Although, this has injected a lot of technical talents into the development of the society, but from the perspective of campus environment, there are still many problems. Some colleges and universities' infrastructure equipment is not perfect, and logistics support work is difficult to be fully implemented, which is unable to meet the needs of students. It will lead to students' dissatisfaction, vent their emotions in various platforms, and affect overall image of the school to a certain extent. According to the relevant investigation and research, the most dissatisfied and complained about are dormitory water supply, power supply and other issues. There are many people in the dormitory, but the per capita occupied area is relatively small, and the students' living goods are too much to put down. Some school dormitories do not have air conditioning, affecting students' rest. Dormitory electricity has requirements that it will automatically cut off power when time is up, if students encounter unexpected problems, they will be affected<sup>[4]</sup>.

2.4 Problems of students, teachers and counselors

There are many students becomes very relaxed after entering the university, from time to time, absent from class, with unqualified test results, make-up examination, etc., in this process, once caught by the teacher, there will be dissatisfaction. In the network era, they will use the network to spread a variety of information, causing network violence. In addition, when teachers or counselors deal with students' performance, evaluation, scholarship and other work, there are problems such as unclear communication and unclear process, which will also make students feel dissatisfied, becoming an obstacle to the construction of a harmonious campus<sup>[5]</sup>.

3. Harmonious campus construction measures based on the perspective of college student management

The traditional education and teaching management in colleges and universities has been unable to meet the requirements of the construction of a harmonious campus. It needs to keep pace with the development of the times and carry out education and teaching reform. The following three aspects of how to construct a harmonious campus are discussed.

3.1 For the students, strengthening the education of students' self cognition

First, students' self-awareness contains a lot of content, colleges and universities need to pay attention to this content, establish a complete curriculum system in education and teaching work, and guide students' correct self-awareness. Schools can encourage students to participate in some community activities, in which the advantages of students can be reflected, so as to improve the satisfaction of students participating in activities. At the same time, the school should pay attention to the students who are in a weak position. For those who have difficulties in family, poor comprehensive ability, social disorder and diseases, it is necessary to establish a special department and arrange special personnel to guide them in terms of mental health, so that they can walk out of confusion and face life and study with a positive and optimistic attitude.

Second, strengthening the construction of student cadres. Student cadres are outstanding students in all aspects of the class. They are the assistants of teachers and counselors and the key figures in building a bridge between the two sides. At the same time, the student cadre team with outstanding comprehensive ability and high quality is an important driving force for the construction of a harmonious society. Vigorously developing and training student cadres, building a sound support mechanism, organizing student cadres exchange and other activities, can mobilize their enthusiasm to participate in the construction of a harmonious campus, strengthen their sense of identity, and satisfaction and sense of responsibility for their own work, so as to play their leading role more actively, better guiding, leading and influencing other students, and become the regulator of disharmony<sup>[6]</sup>.

3.2 For the school, improving the comprehensive ability and level of education and teaching

To build a harmonious campus, the school itself should give full play to the advantages of top-level design. In the daily management of students, it is necessary to strengthen the construction of Ideological and political positions, and do a good job in Ideological and political research. At the same time, we should strengthen the supervision of public opinion and adopt scientific and effective ways to correct students' online behavior. We should also do a good job in the safety supervision of students, prohibit some bad behaviors such as fighting and fighting, so as to collect typical cases for educating the students and arranging all kinds of work, and timely discover and deal with bad behaviors and events. In addition, it is necessary to improve the quality of logistics services, as well as the construction of infrastructure and equipment, to make students happy in school and satisfied with life.

3.3 For the teachers and counselors, playing the leading role

In the work of education and teaching in colleges and universities, teachers and counselors, the guider of the students, are very important subjects, who contact with students for the longest time, and play a very important role in the process of building a harmonious campus. In the daily education and teaching work, we need to do the following:

First, we should be clear about our working ability, such as communication ability, coordination and organization ability. Counselors and teachers should combine their own actual situation, develop ability improvement plan, and improve their work ability according to the requirements.

Second, we should have a comprehensive understanding of students, including their values, physical and mental characteristics, to develop a sound teaching program. We should also pay attention to some hot issues in society and make scientific analysis to guide students to treat these problems correctly and promote the formation of correct values.

Third, we should build a home school linkage mechanism. With the help of the current multimedia platform, the interaction and communication with the parents of students can be strengthened, so that families can also participate in the process of building a harmonious society.

4. Conclusion

In a word, the construction of an efficient and harmonious campus is not achieved overnight, which involves a lot of contents. It is a complex system project. It needs the cooperation of students, schools and other parties to create a good interactive communication environment, so as to promote the early realization of the construction goal of harmonious campus.
