Introduction:

Under the background of the new era, colleges and universities, as an important position to train socialist builders and successors, shoulder the mission of training high-quality talents. As an important part of higher education, ideological and political education and labor education play an irreplaceable role in the all-round development of students. Ideological and political education is the soul of college education, which is related to the ideological and moral construction of students, and is the key to cultivating students' correct values and outlook on life. Labor education emphasizes the cultivation of students' labor concepts, labor skills and innovative spirit through labor practice. The integration of the two can not only improve the comprehensive quality of students, but also promote educational equity, promote socialist core values, and then promote the sustainable and healthy development of social economy. However, in the practice of integrating ideological and political education with labor education, universities still face many challenges. How to combine the two effectively and give full play to their maximum educational effect has become an urgent problem to be solved.

1. The value of integrating ideological and political education with labor education in colleges and universities

1.1 Improve the comprehensive quality of students

The integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities can significantly improve the comprehensive quality of students. By combining ideological and political theory education with specific labor practice activities, students can not only deepen their understanding of ideological and political theory knowledge, but also improve their practical ability, innovative thinking and problem-solving ability through practical exercise. This mode of integrated education helps to cultivate students' practical ability and innovative spirit, so that they can better adapt to the needs of the future society.

1.2 Promote equity in education

The integration of ideological and political education and labor education is of great significance for promoting educational equity^[1]. In the process of integrated education, schools can provide equal opportunities for students from different backgrounds to participate, so that they can experience the hardships and joys of labor in practice, and feel the power of teamwork. This kind of education mode is helpful to eliminate the educational inequality caused by family economic conditions, regional differences and other factors, and promote the realization of educational equity.

1.3 Promote core socialist values

The integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities is conducive to the promotion of socialist core values. In labor practice, students can more deeply understand the connotation and significance of socialist core values, so as to practice these values more consciously. This mode of education is conducive to cultivating students' sense of social responsibility, civic awareness and dedication, and promoting the wide dissemination and in-depth practice of socialist core values among young students.

1.4 Boost social and economic development

The integration of ideological and political education and labor education also plays a positive role in promoting social and economic development. Through labor practice, students can better understand the current situation and future trend of social and economic development, and enhance their innovation awareness and entrepreneurial ability. This kind of education mode is helpful to cultivate high-quality talents with innovative spirit and practical ability, and provide strong talent support for social and economic development. At the same time, labor education can also help students establish correct labor concepts and values, and promote social harmony, stability and sustainable development.

2. Path innovation of integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities

2.1 Reform curriculum and teaching

In the process of promoting the integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities, the reform of curriculum and teaching is the primary task. Take a comprehensive university as an example, which has added a thematic module on "labor and social development" to its ideological and political curriculum. In this module, students will learn about the importance of labor, its historical evolution, and the relationship between labor and social development. Teachers not only teach theory, but also introduce a large number of real cases, such as the deeds of model workers, labor elements in social hot issues, so that students can understand the theoretical knowledge at the same time, feel the practical value of labor. In addition, the school also offers labor practice courses, allowing students to personally participate in labor activities, such as campus greening, laboratory maintenance, etc., through personal experience to deepen their understanding of labor.

2.2 Organize practical teaching and activities

Practical teaching and activities are the key links in the integration of ideological and political education and labor education^[2]. A university has made an active exploration in this regard. They regularly organize "Labor weeks" to encourage students to participate in labor practices on and off campus. During "Labor Week," students work in groups on various labor tasks, such as cleaning common areas and participating in agricultural production. Such activities not only let the students experience the hardships and happiness of labor, but also let them deeply understand the value and significance of labor. In addition, the school has established a practical education base in cooperation with local enterprises. Students can participate in actual production activities under the guidance of enterprises and understand occupational characteristics and labor requirements. Through such practical teaching activities, students' practical ability and social responsibility have been significantly improved. At the same time, they are more clear about their career planning and life goals, laying a solid foundation for future career development.

2.3 Strengthen the construction and training of teachers

strengthening the construction and training of teachers is a crucial part^[3]. Taking a university of science and technology as an example, the school attaches great importance to the professional growth of ideological and political education and labor education teachers. The school regularly holds special training courses combining ideological and political education with labor education, inviting experts and scholars in the industry to give lectures to help teachers update their educational concepts and improve their educational abilities. At the same time, the school also encourages teachers to participate in relevant research topics and explore effective models of the integration of ideological and political education and labor education through practice.

For example, a ideological and political teacher in the school was deeply inspired to integrate labor education elements into the ideological and political class, and guide students to establish correct labor concepts by explaining the deeds and working spirit of model workers. The teacher also actively organizes students to participate in labor practice activities, so that students can experience the hardships and happiness of labor in practice. After training and practice, the teacher not only improved his own ability, but also led the innovative development of the entire ideological and political teaching team.

2.4 Construction of campus culture and atmosphere

The construction of campus culture and atmosphere plays an important role in promoting the integration of ideological and political education and labor education. By holding colorful campus cultural activities, a university actively creates a good atmosphere of labor glory and practice education. The school regularly holds labor culture festivals, and carries out activities such as labor skills competitions and labor achievements display, so that students can feel the charm of labor in the participation. At the same time, the school also uses the campus media platform to widely publicize the importance of labor education, so that the concept of labor education is deeply rooted in people's hearts. The Student Union can organize "campus Labor Day" activities, and all teachers and students participate in campus cleaning and greening work. On the day of the activity, students worked in groups, some swept up fallen leaves, some trimmed flowers, and others were responsible for garbage sorting. The whole campus is immersed in a hot working atmosphere. Through this activity, students not only experienced the hardships and happiness of labor, but also enhanced teamwork and environmental awareness. This positive campus cultural atmosphere provides strong support for the integration of ideological and political education and labor education.

3. Closing remarks

With the coming of the new era, the integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities is particularly important. Through the in-depth analysis of integration value and the exploration of innovation path, this paper provides a new perspective and practical framework for college educators. Through the deep integration of ideological and political education and labor education, we can not only cultivate students' comprehensive quality, promote educational equity, carry forward socialist core values, but also train more outstanding talents for social and economic development. We hope that through the integration of ideological and political education and labor education in colleges and universities, we can provide a solid foundation for the all-round development of students and contribute our youth to the realization of the Chinese dream of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation. This is not only the responsibility of college education, but also the mission of every educator. Let us join hands and make unremitting efforts to train the builders and successors of socialism in the new era.
