

Exploring the Infiltration Path of Ideological and Political Education in Pathology Teaching in Colleges

Lan Liu¹, Zhihong Yang¹, Li Liang², Ping Jiang¹, Xie Wang¹

¹Pathology and Pathophysiology Department, Kunming Medical University, Kunming 650500, Yunnan, China.

²Morphological Experiment Center, Kunming Medical University, Kunming 650500, Yunnan, China.

Fund Project: Exploration and practice of Ideological and political construction in pathology, 2019-JY-Z-04.

Abstract: With the implementation of the new curriculum teaching reform, the integration of ideological and political education in college teaching is the core of the implementation of “living morality” in various disciplines, and this is particularly important for pathology teaching. Pathology is an important course for medical majors. The purpose of teaching is not only to enable students to master solid basic medical knowledge, but also to train students to form good professionalism and moral awareness.

Keywords: Ideological and Political Education in Colleges and Universities; Pathology Teaching; Teaching Path; Penetration Pathology has always been regarded as a “bridge discipline” between basic medicine and clinical medicine, which shows its important position in the medical profession. In recent years, due to various reasons, the relationship between doctors and patients in our country has become increasingly tense. Educational researchers have also realized that medical students not only need to learn a solid foundation of medical theory and exercise their own practical skills, but also guide students to establish correctness. Ideological and ethical concepts to form a good professional quality.

1. The necessity of permeating ideological and political education in pathology teaching in colleges

1.1 The penetration of ideological and political education in pathology teaching is a requirement of the country and society

Based on national development, my country has always attached great importance to the ideological and political education of college students. In recent years, the importance of ideological and political education has been repeatedly emphasized at the ideological and political education conferences in colleges and universities, and schools are required to seek common development between ideological and political education and other disciplines, and is building a good ideological and political learning environment for students and teachers to improve students’ ideological and moral qualities.

1.2 Infiltrating ideological and political education in pathology teaching is conducive to the development of pathology

Ideological and political education is a multi-dimensional and infinitely inclusive comprehensive subject. The infiltration of ideological and political education into pathology teaching can guide students to think about related issues from other perspectives and expand students’ thinking and cognition. In addition, from the perspective of pathology education, pathology teaching in colleges and universities should not just stop at the surface of knowledge learning, but should also introduce my country’s traditional humanistic concepts and thinking about comprehensive social relations. The research on pathology should not be limited to professionalism. In itself, in the process of continuous cross-collision with ideological and political education, it gradually improves its own education and teaching to improve the professional quality of students.

2. Paths and methods of penetrating ideological and political education in pathology teaching in colleges

2.1 Strengthen the concept of “teaching and educating people”

It is far from enough to infiltrate ideological and political education in pathology teaching in colleges and universities. It is far from enough to rely on school political workers. Schools need to mobilize all students and teachers, and strengthen the educational concept of “teaching and educating people” among teachers. First of all, teachers should improve their own words and deeds, set a good example for students, and set a good example in thinking and behavior. Secondly, teachers should deepen their understanding of ideological and political education, realize the importance of permeating ideological and political education in pathology in colleges and universities, and strengthen their own concepts of education. Finally, college management should include teaching and educating people in teaching evaluation and set up specific requirements to supervise teachers to implement ideological and political education and ensure the effectiveness of ideological and political education.

2.2 Improve the educating ability of pathology teachers

It is a huge challenge for teachers to deepen ideological and political education into pathology teaching. Teachers need to further improve and improve their professional abilities to ensure the simultaneous progress of ideological and political education and pathology education. First of all, teachers should correct their daily behaviors, set a good example for students, and use their own teaching charm to attract students to imitate and learn. Secondly, schools should strengthen relevant training for pathology teachers, carry out education on pedagogy, psychology, philosophy and other humanities subjects, improve pathology teachers' ideological and political theories, and further optimize teachers' ideological and political education levels, so that teachers the ideological and political education concepts can be flexibly interspersed with pathology teaching. Finally, teachers need to establish a good relationship with students, insist on taking students as the main body of teaching, think about specific teaching methods from the perspective of students, guide students to participate in actual teaching activities, guide and inspire students to think and think actively. Issues related to political education to enhance students' ideological and political consciousness.

2.3 Build a new teaching system and attach importance to ideological and political education

In addition to strengthening ideological and political education in the discipline of pathology, colleges and universities themselves and all levels of society should participate in ideological and political education activities to jointly build a new ideological and political education system, establish a good ideological and political learning environment for students, and guide students to self-develop good ideological and moral concepts in a subtle way, and improve their ideological and political literacy.

3. Conclusion

As a basic course of medicine, pathology occupies a very important position in the entire university education system. In order to further help students form good behavioral values, colleges and universities should infiltrate the content related to ideological and political education in pathology teaching, and then promote the effective development of ideological and political education in colleges and universities. Teachers should combine the characteristics of pathology teaching, use diversified teaching methods, expand teaching content, do a good job of teaching guidance and teaching evaluation, build a good learning environment for ideological and political education teaching, and strive to allow students to improve their own moral education quality in pathology teaching. Form a good professional quality, meet the needs of national and social development, and lay a solid foundation for future study and work.

References

1. Zhang Q. Analysis of the path of integrating moral education into ideological and political education. New West 2019; 000(005): 136+89.
2. Yuan T. Path analysis of the teaching effectiveness of ideological and political theory courses in colleges and universities. Knowledge Economy 2019; 000(019): 152+154.
3. Zhang T, Yang Y. Analysis on the path of the integration and development of college aesthetic education and ideological and political education in the new era. Popular Literature and Art 2019; 000(024): 236-237.