Abstract: To solidly carry out the study and education of party history is to educate, guide and encourage party members to inherit the revolutionary tradition, inherit the red gene, and carry forward the revolutionary spirit, so as to always maintain the upward spirit of hard struggle, and show new achievements in the new journey towards the goal of the second century. Colleges and universities are the cradle of talent training and socialist successors. The foundation of standing is to implement the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people, and the implementation of the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people is inseparable from educating people with the history of the party. Therefore, in the process of party history learning and education, colleges and universities should organically combine the development of party history learning and education with the implementation of building morality and cultivating people, focus on the spiritual essence and core essence of party history learning and education, and innovate the new path of party history learning and education with the times, in order to promote the depth and focus of party history learning and education, and improve the effect of party history education.

Keywords: Party History Learning and Education; Building Morality and Cultivating People; Go Deep With Heart

He, who knows what he has never known, knows what he has gone. In-depth study, research and application of party history is to give full play to the role of party history in learning from history, educating people with resources and government, and pay attention to constantly absorbing the power of progress from our century long party history, which is not only our party's fine tradition, but also an important task to strengthen the construction of ideological and political theory. In order to implement the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people and cultivate new people of the times needed by the party and the country, colleges and universities must take the solid development of party history learning and education as an important starting point, give full play to the main position role of young people in growing up, and grasp the spirit of party history learning and education from a high level, in order to understand the core of party history learning and education from a deep level, innovate the path of party history learning and education from the perspective of validity, so as to guide young students to understand the truth with clear reason, strengthen their ambition with increasing trust, and cultivate themselves with morality, as well as serve the country with strength.

1. Deeply understanding the spirit and improving the "height" of party history learning and education

The party's history is an important and valuable spiritual wealth for Party members. It is our party's fine tradition to pay attention to the study and education of party history, be good at summing up experience and condensing strength. Standing at the new starting point of the century since the founding of the party and facing the great changes that our party has not seen in a century, carrying out the study and education of party history is an inevitable requirement for all Party members to remember their original mission and promote the great historical cause of the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation. It is an inevitable requirement for strengthening their faith and belief, upholding and developing socialism with Chinese characteristics in this new era, and promoting our party's self revolution. It is an inevitable requirement to always maintain the vitality of the party. For colleges and universities, it is also an inevitable requirement for fully implementing our party's education policy, adhering to the socialist direction of running a school, and implementing the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people. Therefore, it is of great significance for colleges and universities to seriously carry out the study and education of party history. We must focus on the implementation of the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people, improve the political position, guide the majority of young people to study the party's 100 year history well, and inherit the party's 100 year successful experience, in order to carry forward the spirit of the revolution, walk with the times and grow into a new person of the times who can shoulder great responsibilities.

2. Grasping the core essence and enhancing the “depth” of Party history learning and education

2.1 The study and education of Party history is the “spiritual supply station” to continue the century old red blood

The centennial history of our party is one hundred years of unswervingly practicing its original heart and mission, one hundred years of laying the foundation and starting a career, and one hundred years of constantly creating brilliance and opening up the future. It is magnificent. The reason why our Party has gone through a hundred years and is in its prime, has endured hardships and is alive and well is that it is such a revolution and a strong spirit of hard work. Therefore, in order to carry out the study and education of party history, colleges and universities should constantly educate and guide teachers and students to deeply understand a series of great spirits forged in various historical periods of the Party, deeply study and understand why our Party can. The basic principles of why Marxism is “good” and why socialism with Chinese characteristics is “good” are to supplement the spiritual calcium and draw the strength to forge ahead, so as to continue to make achievements and make achievements in a new era in a new journey of 100 years with a more high spirited state of mind.

2.2 The study and education of Party history is a “required course of faith” to take the road of the long march in the new era

Know history, love the party, know history and love the country. Only by understanding history can we see further, and only by always maintaining the original heart can we go further. The hundred year history of our party is a history of continuous practical innovation and theoretical innovation, and a history of continuous struggle to achieve national prosperity, national rejuvenation and people's happiness. Colleges and universities should understand the road of strengthening the Party from the great struggle of the Party for a hundred years, deeply understand the genetic code of our party's eternal youth and vitality, and build grass-roots Party organizations into strong battle fortresses that “listen to the Party, feel the Party's kindness, follow the Party, be good at unity, understand development, be able to educate people, maintain stability, don't be confused and play a role at critical moments”; We should deeply study and understand the Party's hundred year history, a thick historical book “in view of the past, invest in governance”, establish a great historical view, and constantly improve our school running ability, education ability and development ability. We should strengthen the learning and utilization of general secretary Xi Jinping's lecture on education important discourse, and unswervingly follow the socialist ideology of socialism with Chinese characteristics to continuously educate China.

2.3 The study and education of Party history is the “red lecture hall” to promote ideological and political work in colleges and universities

Education is the great plan of the country and the party. If education prospers, the country prospers, and if education is strong, the country is strong. Building Morality and cultivating people is not only the fundamental task of our colleges and universities, but also the theoretical and practical guide to promote ideological and political work in the new era. Therefore, colleges and universities should focus on the fundamental task of building morality and cultivating people to constantly build a lifeline of ideological and political work. Our Party's hundred years of struggle contains rich spiritual nutrition, which is the best “nutrient” to do a good job in ideological and political work. Therefore, colleges and universities should be able to combine the study of party history, understanding of thought, doing practical things and opening up a new situation with ideological and political work, and be the pioneer of learning, studying and publicizing party history with due academic consciousness; We should learn to inspire young students with the great achievements of the Party, educate young students with the party’s fine traditions, and inspire young students with the party’s successful experience, in order to warn young students with the party’s history, guide young students to strengthen their confidence and determination to follow the party, and adhere to nourish themselves with a century of party history.

3. Broadening the activity path and improving the “effectiveness” of Party history learning and education

To innovate the development path of party history learning and education, we should not only pay attention to “learning”, use learning to enhance ideological and theoretical literacy, but also pay attention to “practice”, use practice to achieve achievement transformation and explore the path of innovative practice. Therefore, on the basis of further grasping the objectives and requirements of Party history learning and education, colleges and universities should do a good job in “specified actions” and innovate “optional actions” based on their own actual situation, so as to improve the effectiveness of party history education.

3.1 Enriching learning forms, arming yourself with theory and realizing the great power of thought

Colleges and universities should make good use of the “textbook” of the Centennial Party history, make good use of the designated learning books and bibliographies, and carry out learning through various forms, to guide young students to further identify with why our Communist Party “can”, why Marxism “can”, and why socialism with Chinese characteristics is “good”. We should focus on learning from topic and transform from theory into practice. First, universities can create “online” learning platform, and build a all-weather fingertip education platform by learning powerful nation, Party building website, Yi Ban workstation, party history learning and education WeChat official account, so as to attract young students to receive “Party history education” online “cross screen”. “Fingertip education platform” can convey “great wisdom of thought”, so that where there is a network, there will be cloud party classes; Second, colleges and universities can create an “offline” learning platform, create a one-stop “charging pile of Party building knowledge” by setting up a “Party member learning corner”, and regularly carry out theme activities such as learning with “heart”, doing with “heart” and talking about “heart” sound, so as to make the whole campus full of “Party flavor”.

3.2 Excavating learning resources and enhancing faith concentration through practice and understanding

Colleges and universities should tap the red “resource bank” inside and outside the school, guide young students to carry out interactive experiential learning, consciously inherit the party’s spiritual pedigree and integrate the red gene into their blood. By focusing on special training and transforming theory into practice, colleges and universities can create a “three-dimensional” classroom to enhance the attraction and appeal of special training. First, we should make active use of party history resources to create a real classroom of “touching the original heart”. With the learning resources of living Party history, actively organize and guide young students to enter the red education base with faith to carry out immersive learning, turn the site of the base into an educational classroom, turn the materials of the base into educational teaching materials, and turn the interpretation of the base into educational interaction, so as to promote young students to review party history in the real scene and touch the “original heart”; Second, we should inherit the red gene and create a classroom with the theme of “listening to the original heart”, set up a thematic classroom integrating fixed lecture hall, special lecture hall and “cloud” lecture hall, to promote teachers and students to deeply study party history and arouse the resonance of “original heart”; Third, we should integrate into daily life and create a dynamic classroom of “nourishing the initial heart”, make fresh teaching materials by means of short videos and H5, and enhance the experience and freshness of learning and education, in order to let learning touch the thoughts of teachers and students, and nourish the “original heart” of teachers and students.

3.3 Innovating the learning carrier to stimulate the motivation to forge ahead

Colleges and universities should actively explore good ways to carry out the study of party history, build an educational carrier loved by young students, and encourage teachers and students to devote themselves to the great cause of strengthening the country. We should turn theory into practice and focus on the practical activities of “I do practical things for the masses”. First, colleges and universities can take the initiative to do practical things for teachers and students by creating a “Party member service pioneer post”, so as to promote learning and education “sweet to the hearts of teachers and students and warm to the hearts of teachers and students”. “Party member service pioneer post” highlights the information of Party members performing their duties on the Internet, the identity on the door, the post card on the table and the party emblem, and guides party members to make contributions based on their own posts and constantly strive to be pioneers in innovation, which not only effectively prevents the “two skins” of learning and work, but also makes teachers and students feel new changes in the study and education of party history, and let teachers and students’ happiness and sense of gain continue to increase; Second, colleges and universities can also build a four-level grid of “Party committee”, “general Party branch”, “Party branch” and “Party group” from top to bottom vertically, form a party member group composed of several party members horizontally, and form a “4+n” grid management service system vertically and horizontally, so as to realize the comprehensive integration of “Party organization, personnel, resources and service” into teachers and students. The implementation of the grid management service system can promote the downward shift of the focus and strength of the party organization, connect the political functions and service functions, and then give full play to the strong fighting fortress role of the grass-roots party organizations and the vanguard and exemplary role of the party members.
