1. Introduction

In the new era, the spiritual education of populus euphratica is a continuous process. In this process, schools and teachers should formulate mature and perfect teaching plans, implement high-quality and efficient teaching management through the teaching methods of cultural guidance and cultural edification, and constantly make pragmatic innovation in the teaching process to explore a new teaching path, in order to realize the effective moral education guidance to students.

2. Natural properties of populus euphratica

Populus euphratica can grow well in the harsh natural environment. Populus euphratica does not have high requirements for the geological environment. It still has strong endurance in areas with high salinity. Populus euphratica takes root in the hinterland of the desert and constantly struggles with sandstorm, hot sun and severe cold. Populus euphratica has rich humanistic spirit. For example, the lack of water will wither the branches on the surface, maintain the development of root system and maintain the life of vegetation. Once the time is ripe, it can germinate quickly and rejuvenate after obtaining corresponding water. Therefore, in the current quality education, we should pay more attention to pragmatic innovation with the help of populus euphratica spirit, rather than adopting a single, rigid and old-fashioned teaching method in the teaching process, or adopting the same teaching means in the teaching process. The spirit of populus euphratica also includes the spirit of selfless dedication. On the one hand, it improves the desert environment, on the other hand, it provides corresponding economic benefits for the society. Populus euphratica has tenacious vitality and high economic value. Its natural attributes have corresponding commonalities with the teaching philosophy pursued in quality education in China. No matter in students' learning career or in their subsequent social struggle process, they need to integrate the populus euphratica spirit and always have the ideological quality of hard struggle and selfless dedication. In the new era, the school should deeply integrate the populus euphratica spirit and populus euphratica culture with the existing teaching work in the teaching process, so as to realize the deeper ideological education guidance for students.

The spirit of populus euphratica is more integrated into virtue and ethics. The reason why people praise populus euphratica is not only to appreciate the graceful demeanor of populus euphratica in the desert, but also because populus euphratica shows extraordinary vitality in the desert. It takes root in the frontier and strives for self-improvement, just like soldiers guarding the frontier. Populus euphratica spirit and populus euphratica culture deeply affect China's traditional culture. In today's moral education, it is of great practical significance to carry out directional education and guidance for students in combination with populus euphratica spirit, so that students can understand the true meaning of life by observing and learning populus euphratica.

The school spirit is the external image of the whole school, which represents the cultural beliefs respected by the school. The spirit of populus euphratica contains the ideological quality of hard work, self-reliance, not afraid of difficulties, seeking truth from facts and rooted in the depths, which is mapped to the spiritual level of the school. In short, the spiritual connotation of hard work, self-improvement and taking root in the frontier is permeated in the populus euphratica spirit. In the school spiritual culture, the teaching staff should learn the fighting spirit of serving the frontier and taking root in the deep soil in the populus euphratica spirit, and complete the perfect interpretation of the populus euphratica spirit in the new era. In the new era, the school needs to adhere to the scientific outlook on development, fully implement the spirit instructions of the documents formulated by the Party Central Committee, respect the current teaching laws, and take the development of society, nation and country as the main driving force, as well as take the individualized and autonomous growth and development of students as the goal of running the school, so as to rely on the spirit of populus euphratica to build a new campus culture and realize the more long-term and stable development of the school.

In the process of integrating the populus euphratica spirit and implementing talent education and training, the school should implement the whole process and dynamic teaching work, and implement the populus euphratica spirit into every part of students' daily life and learning. First, the school needs to combine the school culture and rely on the school culture to complete the training of today's high-quality teachers, so that teachers can bring populus euphratica spirit into the classroom and integrate it into students' actual life and learning. The spirit of populus euphratica lays stress on dedication and hard work. We can cultivate the student group in the new era and finally pass on the spirit of populus euphratica from generation to generation.

Later, in the process of educating and cultivating students, the school also needs to fully tap the populus euphratica spirit contained in the teaching materials. For example, in the innovation and entrepreneurship curriculum, the school can introduce the history of garrison and garrison the border, and effectively associate it with the hardships of innovation and entrepreneurship, so that students can fully understand the era significance and social significance of struggling in the process of today's society, country and personal development, and understand the practical significance of giving full play to their personal values.
