

The Whole Process of the Triple Logic of People's Democracy: Theory, History and Reality

Suozhu Cui

School of Marxism, Heilongjiang University, Harbin 150080, China

Abstract: People's democracy is an integral part of socialist theory, the whole process of people's democracy is a significant change in the history of world political civilization. From the theoretical and logical analysis, the whole process of people's democracy is the definition of the concept of democracy in the classic works of Marxism, inheriting the democratic gene in the excellent traditional Chinese culture, and is the development and transcendence under the pursuit of common human values. From the historical logic analysis, the whole process of people's democracy is rooted in the Communist Party of China's continuous pursuit of democratic development, to effectively protect the people's democratic rights of the historical choice; From the realistic logic analysis, the development of the whole process of people's democracy is the objective choice to achieve the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation, is the urgent need to strengthen the Party's governance capacity building, is the realistic need to solve the main contradiction in today's society, and is the inevitable choice to break through the form of capitalist democracy.

Keywords: The Whole process of people's democracy; Logical connotation; Ideological and political education

The whole process of people's democracy manifests itself in the aspects of democratic election, supervision and democratic consultation, and influences politics, culture and social services.

1. The theory and logic of the whole process of people's democracy

In the classic works of Marxism, the meaning of democracy is elaborated in detail, which mentions that socialist democracy is a democracy that takes into account all the people. There have long been records and explanations of democracy in Chinese traditional culture, and China has far more democratic experience than other countries. It is these cultural genes cast in the blood of the Chinese nation that have given birth to the whole process of people's democracy that truly reflects the interests and voices of the people. The concept of a community with a shared future for mankind has been recognized and supported by more countries and regions, and the common value orientation contained in it has also boosted the emergence and development of a new form of democracy - the whole process of people's democracy.

1.1 Definition of the connotation of democracy in Marxist classics

One of the manifestations of modern Western social democracy is representative system, which limits people's democratic rights to the choice of various parties and the selection of candidates, rather than allowing people to exert their democratic rights in more fields. This kind of democracy simply becomes a false representation of elite politics under the rule of the western bourgeoisie, the purpose of which is to limit and formalize the form of democracy. Marx and Engels believed that true democracy emerged in socialist society and could be realized after the abolition of bourgeois rule and the proletariat holding the political power.

1.2 The profound influence of Chinese fine traditional culture on Chinese democracy

The fine traditional Chinese culture has a long history and is extensive and profound. The ancient books and views of ancient philosophers all contain advanced democratic thoughts, which convey the connotation value and development process of democracy in objective and authentic writing. China is clearly ahead of other countries in the world. The elements of democracy in Chinese civilization are reflected in several aspects: first, democracy in Chinese fine traditional culture is extremely inclusive; Secondly, democracy in Chinese traditional culture highlights the value of the people; Finally, the democracy in Chinese fine traditional culture is the democracy of innovation and development.

1.3 The common value of human destiny promotes the emergence and development of new democracy

Democracy is a very important concept in human history. In the course of the development of democracy in the world, there exists not only the brilliance and decline of democracy in ancient Greece, but also the maturity and decline of western democracy in modern society. In modern society, democracy in western capitalist countries only emphasizes specific measures, but ignores the reason why democracy plays a role and the expectation of future development. To analyze and interpret the western democratic form, absorb the experience and lessons, and then promote the continuous development of socialist democratic politics, which is in line with the development law and general trend of human politics. People's democracy not only absorbs the excellent achievements of the world political civilization, but also finds a way different from the western bourgeois democracy.

2. The historical logic of the whole process of people's democracy

In different stages of development, the manifestation of the principal contradiction is not the same, the focus of the work of the Communist Party of China also has some emphasis, but the people's democracy has been throughout the work of the Communist Party of China, and has been continuously consolidated and developed. The Communist Party of China has led the Chinese people of all ethnic groups in the process of China's revolution, construction and reform, and at the same time explored a new form of socialist democracy.

2.1 The emergence of people's democracy throughout the whole process

From the perspective of history and culture, China, as one of the four ancient civilizations in the world, has created a highly distinctive Chinese civilization, leaving an indelible mark in the history of world civilization. However, under the feudal society for a long time in ancient China, the autocratic system had a far-reaching influence. Until modern times, some progressives realized the gap between China and Western imperialist countries under the usurpation of Western powers, and chose to learn from Western capitalist countries and carry out a series of revolutionary reform movements to promote China's development. After the founding of the Communist Party of China, the Communist Party of China has already put forward the goal of "unifying China as a real democratic republic" and "establishing the politics of the dictatorship of peasants". At the same time, it also started to establish industrial labor unions to help workers fight for their own democratic rights.

2.2 The development and growth of people's democracy throughout the whole process

After the founding of the People's Republic of China, the National People's Congresses and governments at all levels were established and carried out their work nationwide, and the Communist Party of China led the Chinese people of all ethnic groups in practicing socialist democracy. With the successful holding of the Third Plenary Session of the Eleventh Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, China's social development has further demonstrated the scientific characteristics of Marxism and the brilliant brilliance of Chinese democracy. China's fundamental political system has been continuously improved and developed, and various laws and regulations are becoming more and more complete. After many agreed amendments, they can better protect deputies to the people's Congress in exercising the democratic rights entrusted by the people. It can be seen that the whole process of people's democracy in China has been realized from the external expression to the internal essence, from the border areas to the central provincial capitals.

2.3 People's democracy has matured throughout the process

Since the 18th National Congress of the CPC, the Party and the country have become more determined and logical about the development path of the whole process of people's democracy. The compilation of the Civil Code, the publication of the draft of the Civil Code on the National website of China, and the compilation of the 14th Five-Year Plan all involved soliciting opinions and suggestions from the people in various fields. "We are following a socialist political development path with Chinese characteristics," he said. "People's democracy is a whole-process democracy." At the fourth session of the Eleventh National People's Congress, "Upholding democracy throughout the whole process" was written into national laws. The conclusion of the whole process of people's democracy is an important conclusion drawn on the basis of summarizing the democratic practice in China.

3. The logic of the whole process of people's democracy

Marx pointed out that "in a democracy, the state system itself is a rule, that is, the people's self-regulation." People's democracy has its source in theory and experience in history, and it is capable of responding to the risks and challenges of the new era in current practice. It is an important practical measure to resolve major social contradictions.

3.1 Objective requirements for realizing the great rejuvenation of the Chinese nation

The role and value of the masses are extremely important in the whole process of developing people's democracy. The whole process of people's democracy safeguards the democratic rights of the Chinese people, ensures that they can participate in the governance and operation of the country, and contribute their share to the prosperity of the country, national rejuvenation and people's happiness. In the process of adhering to the people's democracy in the whole process of development, the people have been able to participate in every link and field of national development and social operation.

3.2 Urgent demand for strengthening the Party's governing ability

The whole process of developing people's democracy is conducive to enhancing the ruling capacity of the Communist Party of China, and is an inevitable requirement for building a socialist party in the new era. Through the implementation of the whole process of people's democracy, the Communist Party of China's people's position has become firmer, its ties with the democratic parties have become closer, the ruling party's capacity and level have been further improved, and it has been able to better pool the wisdom and help of the people to better promote the development of socialist modernization.

3.3 The practical need to solve the principal contradiction in today's society

The whole process of people's democracy through specific and complete measures to highlight the value and implications of democracy, and then resolve the main contradiction of socialist society. Whole-process people's democracy is a form of high-quality democracy that focuses on addressing the practical needs of the people in fairness and justice, democracy and the rule of law, so as to further promote free and all-round human development on the basis of completing the building of a moderately prosperous society in all respects, and help the sons and daughters of the Chinese people to devote themselves to the great cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics.

The whole process of people's democracy shows its remarkable superiority in practice. In the whole process of development, people's democracy needs to improve democratic institutions, enrich its forms and broaden its channels, constantly improve itself in practice, and contribute Chinese wisdom to the development of world political civilization.

References:

- [1] Hang Shanshan. Theoretical Basis, Historical Process and Experience Enlightenment of People's Democracy in the Whole Development Process of the Communist Party of China [J]. Chongqing Social Sciences, 2023, No. 340(03): 17-26.
- [2] LI Shaojie. Theoretical Innovation of the Whole Process of People's Democracy [J]. Theoretical Science, 2023, No. 835(01): 46-49.